

A History of Public Sector Pensions in the United States

Pension Research Council Publications

A list of recent books in the series appears at the back of this volume.

A History of Public Sector Pensions in the United States

Robert L. Clark, Lee A. Craig, and Jack W. Wilson

Pension Research Council
The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania

PENN

University of Pennsylvania Press
Philadelphia

Copyright © 2003 The Pension Research Council of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania

All rights reserved

Printed in the United States of America on acid-free paper

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Published by

University of Pennsylvania Press

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104-4011

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Clark, Robert Louis, 1949-

A history of public sector pensions in the United States. / Robert L. Clark, Lee A. Craig, Jack W. Wilson.

p. cm.

"Pension Research Council publications."

Includes bibliographical references and index.

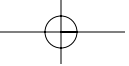

ISBN 0-8122-3714-5 (cloth : alk. paper)

1. United States—Officials and employees—Pensions. 2. Military pensions—United States. I. Craig, Lee A. (Lee Allan), 1960- II. Wilson, Jack W. III. Title.

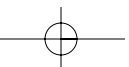

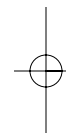

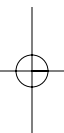

JK791.C58 2003

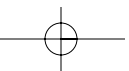

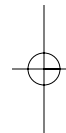

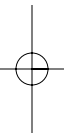

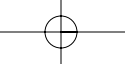

331.25'29135173—dc21

2002043046

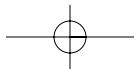

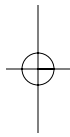

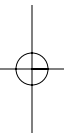

To our friend and colleague Richard Sylla

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
1. The Evolution of Public Pensions	1
2. Pension Economics	11
3. The Origins of Western Military Pensions	24
4. Establishing the U.S. Navy Pension Plan	43
5. Management of the U.S. Navy Pension Fund	63
6. Financial Markets and the Management of the Navy Pension Portfolio	92
7. The Civil War and the Revival of the Navy Pension Fund	109
8. The Development of the U.S. Army Pension Plan	122
9. The Birth of the Federal Employees Pension Plan	154
10. Early Pension Plans for State and Local Workers	167
11. Lessons from the Early Development of Public Pensions	218
Appendix Historical Price and Wage Indices	224
References	239
Index	249

Acknowledgments

The authors would like to thank Robert Goldich of the Congressional Research Service for providing information on the development of U.S. military pensions from his files in the Library of Congress. Sam Williamson also provided valuable documents from his personal collection. Doug Fore encouraged the development of this manuscript, and Bob Wright assisted in the preparation of the manuscript through data acquisition. In addition, we received helpful comments from Lee Alston, Gary Libecap, and Olivia Mitchell. Workshop participants at Ball State University, Miami University (Ohio), the Triangle Universities' Economic History Workshop, the University of Virginia, Wake Forest University, the annual meetings of the Business History Conference, the National Bureau of Economic Research Summer Institute, and the Labor Economics and Human Resource Workshop at North Carolina State University were also important to the development of the volume.

Laura Phillips provided valuable research assistance during the preparation of the final manuscript. Jean Porter of the D. H. Hill Library at North Carolina State University provided considerable assistance in locating many of the original sources cited in this volume. The final manuscript was prepared while Craig was on leave, and the authors thank Dean John Bartley of the North Carolina State College of Management for his support of the project at that crucial stage. The research in Chapters 4–8, which examines military pension plans in the United States, was partially funded by a grant from the TIAA-CREF Institute.

Finally, the authors extend a special thanks to their friend and colleague Richard Sylla, who contributed encouragement and many helpful comments throughout the preparation of this manuscript. In addition, over the years he has been a co-author to Wilson, and a golfing partner to Clark, and he taught Craig how to tie a bowtie. What more could one ask of a colleague?

